

Creating value through strategic thinking and expertise

Building on the skills and reputation of Australia's leading Planning, Urban Design, Surveying and Spatial Services businesses, Veris provides clients with a comprehensive range of services.

Veris combines innovative technologies with some of Australia's best surveying experience to meet our clients' needs. We deliver an integrated approach to the full project life cycle, from initial planning and feasibility through to construction and beyond. Ongoing investment into research and development in the best geospatial technology gives clients peace of mind that their decision making is based on accurate and reliable data.

Our national surveying team offers clients access to the scale required for major projects while providing personal client service and local expertise in both regional and metropolitan locations.

Wherever you are in Australia, our experienced team of specialists will make the difference to the success of your future development.
